Men Concealed Their Disabilities

Soldiers are Good at Scheming

CONCEALED THEIR DISABILITY

Three youths who concealed their "disabilities" so successfully that examining recruiting surgeons had passed them as "fit" were among the new recruits of the 24th Infantry who have been ordered discharged by Major General Dickman, commanding officer of the Eighth Corps area, which includes Camp Puello.

Organizing Army Troops

New Mexico has recently been included in the seven western states of the Eighth Army Corps area of the United States and troops are being organized to be located at various points in the state. Four troops of cavalry are being organized, one at Deming, one at Santa Fe, and two already organized are being sent to the equipment from the war department. Headquarters for a regiment of combat engineers is being organized with a colonel, lieutenant colonel and headquarters company, the location for the unit not being decided upon, and headquarters for cavalry are also being organized, troop A at Albuquerque with Captain R. B. Gribb in charge and also troop B at Carlsbad with Captain E. M. West in charge. A field artillery unit will be organized at Roswell.

WHY SOLDIERS SCHEME

An instance has been reported to the adjutant general, says a recent order from the office of Major General Dickman, commanding of the Eighth Corps area of the army, famous division, the second, which was distributed at Belton Wood and Vaux, and along the Paris-Metz road, is on duty at Camp Travis.

Washington to Pay Soldiers $15

Olympic, Wash., Nov. 30.—Referendum measure No. 2, known as the soldiers' bonus bill, which provides for the payment of a bonus to former service men of the state of Washington of $15 for each month's service during the world war, will be proclaimed a law today.

Perishing Soldier: "Call Me John"

"Yes, sir," said the big Irishman, respectfully. "I should say I was personally acquainted with General Pershing. I was back of the breakfast table when I heard the slogan of a big war. A voice says, 'Call me John.' A voice says, 'What's your name?' 'Hogan, sir,' says I, recognizing Pershing. 'What's your first name?' 'Pat, sir.' 'Well, Pat, you'd better go home, you're killing too many men. It's slaughter.' 'Very good, general,' says I. 'And in the way, Pat, don't call me general, call me John.'—Does of bookkeeper Fawcett's bookkeeping stories at the 24th Post Exchange.

The Third Infantry in Ohio

The 3rd Infantry, which recently moved from Texas to Ohio, is concentrated for encampment, for the first time since 1902, on its return from a gallant campaign in the Philippines during the insurrection days.

The regiment, which for the past five years has been patrolling the border from a point 50 miles below Eagle Pass, Texas, to stations in the western extremity of Arizona, is now at Camp Sherman, Ohio, where it is encamped with the 2d, 10th, 11th and 40th Infantry regiments under Brigadier General Straits.

The camp lies in the midst of the beautiful and historic Scioto valley. While the ground is new to the men of the regiment, it is not new to the regiment, for there, 130 years ago, the organization, then known as the 3rd Sub-Legion, waged war under General "Mad" Anthony Wayne against the Indians of what was then the northwest frontier of the thirteen original states.

The men of the organization have become acclimated and have entered bravely into field activities. Football practice is being held daily, plans for basketball and hockey are under way and general recreation has been added to all activities.

An interesting letter was received a few days ago from an old soldier of the regiment, who had served in the Philippine war.

"Although I have remained in civil life and have been quite successful in my occupation, civil engineering, I am still as much a soldier as I ever was and am deeply interested in the affairs of my old regiment.

"I believe that you will be interested to know that I attribute whatever measure of success I have attained in my profession largely to my army training. More than twenty years have passed since we were in the Philippines and that service now has a sentimental value to me."

A large number of men have enrolled in the educational and vocational schools at Camp Sherman, which offers a comprehensive list of courses.

With athletics and schools, as well as a military training, it promises to be a busy winter for the Old Guard.

32d Infantry in Michigan

The 32d Infantry arrived at Fort Wayne and Fort Brady, Michigan, October 27, 1920. Fort Wayne is a wonderful post situated 20 minutes on the street car from Detroit. At the first street from the post are located restaurants and stores, and six blocks away is Fort Street, which is a regular city in itself, with picture shows, vaudeville, and the post faces the Detroit river with boats going up and down all day, with Canada in the distance.

The troops are in brick barracks, steam heated, and very comfortable. Recreational opportunities are all that could be desired.
